“OUR SON WILL DRAW ON THIS EXPERIENCE FOR THE REST OF HIS LIFE.”

– Northwest Boychoir Parent

“I WAS IN AWE OF THEIR SOUND.”

– Michael Giacchino, composer,
Medal of Honor/The Incredibles

“I ACTUALLY GO OUT OF MY WAY...TO WORK
WITH THESE TALENTED YOUNG MEN.”

– Gerard Schwarz, Conductor Laureate,
Seattle Symphony

“IT IS GREAT TO BE AT A PLACE WHERE SINGING IS COOL FOR THE BOYS.”

– Northwest Boychoir Member

The Northwest Boychoir is SERIOUS Fun!

- Travel on world-wide tours • Sing with the Seattle Symphony • Appear on local TV and radio
- Record in professional recording studios • Perform in Seattle's premier concert halls

Auditions are private (parents sit-in), friendly and age-appropriate. No previous musical training is required. Auditions and rehearsals take place in Seattle.

- The Northwest Boychoir is one of the Pacific Northwest's foremost music organizations.
- We are in our 38th year of helping young people discover the joy of music as a performing art.
- Our members progress through a series of training levels where they learn music literacy, ear training, vocal technique and performance skills.
- Our classes are small, allowing a low student-to-teacher ratio and maximizing learning opportunities.
- Our members develop a strong appreciation of the discipline and commitment needed to become excellent musicians. At the same time, they have fun and develop strong friendships with fellow members.
- Financial aid is available to any child who meets our audition requirements. We are firmly committed to assisting families with financial aid to cover tuition and other program costs.
- The Northwest Boychoir is a non-profit organization with no religious affiliation.

Having been involved with music performance and education for many years, I have never come across a music educational system for children such as this. Our family is very grateful and impressed with the professional, high caliber staff. I must add that being involved with Northwest Choirs is just plain fun, too!
