

Student Behavior

In preparing children for life, certain structure of non-negotiable behavior will be emphasized and strictly enforced:

- ~ Students will take responsibility for their own learning.
- ~ Students will respond to supervising adults at Mead in a respectful manner.
- ~ Students will work in a safe manner in relation to themselves, others and property.

Each staff member or supervising adult will utilize their professional judgment in determining if the observed or reported behavior demonstrates lack of any of the above categories. Should behaviors occur, all supervising adults would provide immediate consequences, i.e., warning, removal and/or suspension from the Margaret Mead PTSA program, without a refund if two or more classes have occurred.
